

IRISH POLICE REPORTS

January–February 1828

- Sligo Generally quiet; 1 murder; 7 outrages.
Mayo Perfectly quiet; 1 murder; 1 outrage.
Roscommon Rockites rather busy; apprehensive of their extending their operations; 2 murders; 11 outrages.
Clare Quiet; apprehensive of Ribbon spirit extending; 9 outrages.
Leitrim Much disturbed; the sway of the Rockites formidable; magistrates supposed to be deficient in energy; 36 outrages.
Galway Perfectly quiet; 1 murder; 6 outrages.
Antrim Disturbed; robberies of fire-arms; not insurrectionary; 3 murders; 7 outrages.
Armagh Quiet; 1 outrage.
Cavan Strong political feeling ready to develop itself; 9 outrages.
Donegal Not tranquil; 2 murders; 4 outrages.
Down Quiet; 2 outrages.
Fermanagh Tranquil; 6 outrages.
Londonderry Generally quiet; 1 murder; 4 outrages.
Monaghan Disturbed; party violence runs high; 1 murder; 6 outrages.
Ulster may be considered tolerably tranquil, with the exception of some baronies in the counties of Donegal and Monaghan.
Tipperary Whiteboy system prevails very generally; no organized insurrectionary system founded upon political feeling; 4 murders; 75 outrages.
Cork Generally quiet; 1 murder; 4 outrages.
Waterford Quiet; 3 outrages.
Kerry Quiet; 3 outrages.
Roscrea Dis-satisfied spirit excited by inflammatory speeches.
Limerick Satisfactory state; 9 outrages.
Wicklow Western division disturbed; considered necessary to increase the constabulary force by ordering three men to Dunlavin, and three more to another disturbed point; Talbotstown the most disturbed; 3 outrages.
Kildare Nothing to notice.

A.C.W. Edwards, ed. Peace and Reform (1815–1837) (1913):69–70.