

APPREHENSION OF THE REGICIDES

Whitehall, 6 June 1660

Charles, by the Grace of God, King of England, Scotland, France, and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, etc. To all Our loving subjects of England, Scotland, and Ireland, greeting. We, taking notice by the information of Lords and Commons now assembled in Parliament of the most horrid and execrable treason and murder committed upon the person, and against the life, crown, and dignity of Our late royal father, Charles I, of blessed memory.

And that John Lisle; William Say, esquires; Sir Hardress Waller; Valentine Walton; Edward Whalley, esquires; Sir John Burchier, knight; William Heveningham, Esquire; Isaac Pennington, Alderman of London; Henry Marten; John Barkstead; Gilbert Millington; Edmund Ludlow; John Hutchinson, esquires; Sir Michael Livesay, Baronet; Robert Tichborne; Owen Rowe; Robert Lilburn; Adrian Scroope; John Okey; John Hewson; William Goffe; Cornelius Holland; John Carew; Miles Corbet; Henry Smith; Thomas Wogan; Edmund Harvey; Thomas Scot; William Cawley; John Downes; Nicholas Love; Vincent Potter; Augustine Garland; John Dixwell; George Fleetwood; Simon Mayne; James Temple; Peter Temple; Daniel Blagrove; and Thomas Waite, esquires, being deeply guilty of that most detestable and bloody treason in sitting upon and giving judgment against the life of Our royal father;

And also John Cooke, who was employed therein as solicitor, Andrew Broughton and John Phelps, who were employed under the said persons as clerks, and Edward Dendy, who attended them as serjeant-at-arms, have out of the sense of their own guilt lately fled and obscured themselves, whereby they cannot be apprehended and brought to a personal and legal trial for their said treasons according to law.

We do therefore, by the advice of Our said Lords and Commons, command, publish, and declare by this, Our proclamation, that all and every the persons before named shall within fourteen days next after the publishing of this, Our royal proclamation, personally appear and render themselves to the Speaker or Speakers of Our House of Peers and Commons, or unto the Lord Mayor of Our City of London, or to the sheriffs of Our respective counties of England and Wales, under pain of being excepted from any pardon or indemnity both for their respective lives and estates.

And that no person or persons shall presume to harbour or conceal any the persons aforesaid, under pain of misprision of high treason.

Given at our Court at Whitehall the sixth day of June 1660, in the twelfth year of Our reign.
